I would like to lodge an objection to the proposed Aquin Interconnector Cable on the eastern side of Portsmouth and in particular the proposal to drill under the Milton Allotments. The allotments are a very important facility for many people and there is significant investment of time, money and emotional energy over many years in creating a productive plot. Any proposals to drill underneath the allotments, potentially creating damage to the under soil and drainage problems, are not acceptable. I understand that Aquind may also wish to demolish some structures on the allotments, and even if there is compensation available, it would not take account of the time and energy invested over many years. Many of the plot holders are from low income families and the allotments are a very important opportunity for them to have time in the open air and grow produce for their own consumption.

Yours faithfully

Martin Tice
