Hello,

I am late to this argument and can see the need for security of supply in the future but I would like to voice concerns over the need to bring the cables on shore anywhere near Eastney. Why can't they continue through Langston harbour and come out near the broadmarsh where there is an existing substation. This would keep disruption in Portsmouth to a minimum and reduce the need to acquire land rights and dig up sports fields or even disrupt relatively new flood defence work. It seems mad to do that sure it will mean some disruption of the harbour sea bed but not very much and not for very long.

Regards

Pete Fleming
