I am a Milton resident, I have lived here over 10 years and regularly walk the shoreline paths around the allotments and onto the common land by the eastern road. The wildlife culture is in abundance. These works are surely illegal? The damage it will do regardless to how well things are put back after will be savage. I thought the land was protected? I object to these works taking place and damaging and killing off endangered species of wildlife. Why is this going forward still with so many objections, how is this being allowed?
