During a time of unprecedented climate crisis it seems unconscionable to allow such a vital green space within such a densely populated city to be bulldozed by private energy companies and their subsidiaries.
This year's pandemic has proven more than ever the need for clean, green, open spaces available to residents, for both their mental health and physical well being, and a space such as this within the Portsmouth city limits is unique and vital.
If the government wishes to encourage investment in new sources of energy then renewable and clean sources generated on our own shores should, if not must, be encouraged over the purchase of electricity via privately owned networks and a dependency on the resources of other nations.
it is also completely unacceptable that such a large and invasive development has been allowed to proceed so far without adequate information on the long term ownership structure, maintenance and service of the network.
