I write to condemn in the strongest possible terms my utter amazement in the latest tales of woe coming from EDF regarding the proposal to build Sizewell C.

After at least ten years of preparing and planning and with now only a month or so to go before the examination process ends and decisions have to be made, EDF have discovered they do not have enough clean water to allow their build to go ahead. Essex and Suffolk Water say they cannot supply this amount of water and have put a hold on the whole building process until this ridiculous situation is resolved. EDF's latest solution is to tanker in about 40 road tankers per day, adding to the already unacceptable number of road movements. Then to compound the issue they then plan to build a desalination plant adding yet more to the monstrosity that will be Sizewell C.

I cannot believe the Government and Planning Inspectorate can stand by and watch this total incompetence from a company that we are all putting our faith into to let them build a new nuclear power station. I would not trust them to build a Lego version, let alone the real thing.

This is just another example of many where total incompetence has won the day for EDF. Please will you see reason and stop this folly before it is too late for us all. It is utter madness.

Regards
David Humphrey
