

From: [REDACTED]
To: SizewellC
Subject: Sizewell C objection
Date: 12 October 2021 19:24:15

Some points

- The building of a very large power station will require large amounts of concrete. Concrete production is very carbon negative and to even get to being carbon neutral will take decades, probably the majority of the lifetime of the power station.
- The impact on wildlife is going to be immense and the report issues this week states that the UK is already the worst country on the planet for protecting the natural environment so how can we justify making it worse.

Regards

Nigel Mower

Please consider the impact on mother earth of all your activities.

We depend on her for the air we breath and the food we eat.

As does all the Flora and Fauna we are currently destroying at an alarming rate.