I write to urge you to reconsider your plans for Sizewell C. I am all for new energy sources but feel very strongly that the money that Sizewell C would cost would be much better spent on other forms of renewable energy. As a life-long Suffolk resident and someone who loves the Suffolk coast, I cannot believe that 10-12 years (probably much longer) of building work and all the extra vehicular activity this would generate on the already congested A12 route, would in any way benefit the residents of our county, and it would certainly be a long time before any so-called benefits could be reaped by anyone else in the UK either.

I would also urge you to consider very carefully the eroding coastline and protected wildlife habitats surrounding the Sizewell C site and the site sits within the Suffolk Coast and Heaths Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty. What is the point of designating this site an AONB to then build 2 nuclear reactors on it? And, as I understand it, a desalination plant as there would not be enough drinking water for the construction site!

Think too about the damage to our tourism industry – the Suffolk coast, Sutton Hoo, ancient churches and castles – all would be impacted by the building of Sizewell C.

PLEASE PLEASE RECONSIDER..
