Dear Sirs

This letter may be not protocol for which I apologise, but comes to you the highest men in our land from deep within my heart.

^{NOT ENCLOSED}
The enclosed was taken from Swanage, Dorset beach, how quite blissful, peaceful and beautiful. A point along the jurasic coast, and World heritage site. A sight, the last sight for many as they bravely left these shores to defend against invaders almost seventy years ago, some never to see the true dividend of their valour. To hit my point home they would turn in their grave if they knew the plans awaited this area, plans in the form of invasion from the Navitus Bay wind farm. A Dutch French conglomerate, whose shareholders no doubt the real only beneficiaries.

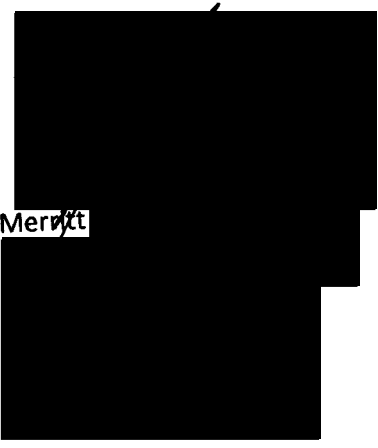

Up to 200 of these monsters 200 meters high ten miles from this view, against Government guidelines, are to be built. This can only be stupidity at it's highest, a danger to shipping of which the area has many-fold, ferries, pleasure-craft, tankers, fishery craft large and small, the ruination of towns their attraction their pure life support will disappear in one form or another, a carbuncle!

Gentlemen you will have heard about this before, you may have received many similar letters, you are in a position to stop this, please, please listen to the people, please please get involved before it's too late.

I understand green energy is a thing of the future, but as recycling not all is beneficial or rewarding.

Yours

Colin Merritt
