Hi,

I am very much in favour of the use of wind power to generate electricity, and look forward to these projects (East Anglia ONE North and East Anglia Two) being realised. However I have sympathy with those who are concerned about the impact of the proposed substations on land at present occupied by Grove Wood at Friston.

Maybe if the buildings are constructed so that they are of architectural interest - or multicoloured - or decorated tastefully by street artists, might they be more acceptable ? (see: https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/video_and_audio/headlines/54302556/female-street-artists-people-assume-i-m-not-the-artist)

Or maybe painted in such a way that they blend into the landscape?

Just a few ideas for Scottish Power - which I have already passed on to them.
