A chance to put my objections to the way SPR is conducting the pre construction surveys due to the extension of the hearings.

On finding out that these surveys can be conducted without supervision of the movement of the vehicles I decided to keep a close eye on the use of the byway that serves my property.

On the arrival of a huge transporter that offloaded a Caterpillar tracked excavator my fears were confirmed.

The byway was blocked for approx 20 minutes causing my neighbour concern as she had a doctor's appointment . Also as three of the occupants of the properties served by this byway have major health issues emergency services would not have been able to get through.

The outline code of construction practice should play a part even though consent has not been given for the project.

I cannot understand why the excavation works are taking place at the moment anyway. If this is an accepted method for companies to do pre works then a local liaison officer should be appointed that can be contacted when these events occur .

There is looming a high volume of tourists to this area all of which will exaggerate the potential mayhem that will be inflicted if the developers continue in this uncontrolled manner therefore causing more stress to the local inhabitants.

Faithfully yours

Mr S Dorcey
