Dear Madam

I write in regards to the energy project referenced above as a Suffolk resident already suffering the ongoing threat of the Sizewell C project.

We moved to this beautiful part of the world to enjoy coastal life, the local wildlife and countryside after having holidayed here for many years with our children.

It seems to me, with nature and biodiversity under such huge pressure from the weight of humankind, areas such as East Suffolk, so rich in wildlife (much of it endangered and rare) should be protected rather than industrialised. All because it has the misfortune to be on the North Sea coast where the sea is shallow enough to easily place cables and windfarms

There are currently 6 confirmed energy projects being proposed for this beautiful quiet and tranquil area. What will the construction of these projects do to the currently massive tourist industry in East Suffolk? And why are we being chosen as the sacrificial lamb for a disproportionate number of energy projects, when the burden of these could be spread more evenly around the whole of the UK?

The mental health and well being as well as the livelihoods of the East Coast residents will be hugely adversely affected and yet no one seems to care?

Please consider how much one little bit of coastline is being asked to bear the brunt of and consider saying no to at least some of these massively destructive energy plans.

Yours sincerely

Francesca Mellen

Suffolk Resident
