Over 100,000 acres of the UK's productive farmland is being lost to development each year. This is currently unregulated. Our greenfield land deserves and needs better protection. In addition to creating an unnecessary national food security risk, Sunnica exposes my family and young children to personal risks to our safety. Not only are the battery storage units and transmission lines a safety risk, the construction traffic will need to navigate small roads that we travel on daily and are not suited for construction traffic. To allow the proposal to proceed in its current form is a direct attack on the safety and quality of life of my family and a dereliction of duty of a government whose duty is to protect its citizens.
