I feel that full time working during the week has not been considered when the initial meetings have been scheduled for on the 15th to 17th November. It means, even though I am an interested party, I cannot take part in the process face to face or live on MS Teams, instead I will be subjected to listening to a recording. I think people's working habits have not been taken into consideration and I, and others in the same position as myself, are being discriminated against due to the fact we have a full time job where it is impossible to take time off to participate. Careful consideration needs to be taken to make this process fair for all.
