

I read with interest the long list of compulsory purchase, I would like to raise two issues with this, 1) the embodied carbon held within this sites would mean that any Carbon Savings (NET Zero in operation) would never get anywhere near accounting for the embodied carbon in the site and therefore the project has no environmental benefit, 2) the potential loss of employment from these compulsory purchases also cannot be recovered, these companies could move anywhere, the few jobs created will never outweigh the job losses.
