Oaklands Farm Solar Park

The Proposed Development comprises a solar farm with an associated Battery Energy Storage System. The Proposed Development would have a generating capacity of over 50MW and would be situated on 191 hectares of land at Oaklands Farm to the south-east of Walton-on-Trent and to the west of Rosliston in south Derbyshire (the Site). The solar park itself, comprising photovoltaic panel arrays, a central electricity substation and Battery Energy Storage System (BESS) together with access, landscaping and other works would be located on 135 hectares of agricultural land currently in use for arable production and grazing. A map showing the location of the Proposed Development can be viewed on the Planning Inspectorate’s project webpage at the following link: EN010122-000196-EN010122 APP 2.1 Site Location Plan.pdf \(planninginspectorate.gov.uk\)

A high voltage underground electricity cable would then run through land at Fairfield Farm and Park Farm to the north to connect the solar park to the national grid via an electricity substation located at the former Drakelow Power Station which sits south of Burton-upon-Trent. As the Proposed Development would be an onshore generating station with a generating capacity of over 50MW it constitutes a Nationally Strategic Infrastructure Project (NSIP) for which an application for a DCO is being made under the Planning Act 2008 (The Act) to the Planning Inspectorate, for determination by the Secretary of State for Energy Security and Net Zero (SoS).

The DCO, if granted, would authorise the compulsory acquisition of land, interests in land and rights over land, and the powers to use land permanently and temporarily. The DCO would also authorise alterations to the layout of streets, the construction of accesses to the Scheme, the temporary stopping up or management of the public rights of way, street works, removal of hedgerows, and the application and disapplication of legislation.
