

I find it amazing the number of forums and rounds or representation we need to make representations to to say no. The scheme is clearly hated by the community but co Sesne rounds of scope ad planning and representation simply confuse people and water down the response.

It's daft tk give up so much arable land, it's unsightly, and. It seems to favour just a few people who will make a fortune and have the mo ey time and incentive to wear down people with the process.
