

OFH1 question

A considerable element of the applicants submissions quote benefits expressed as percentages of power generation, carbon dioxide reductions and population that the electricity generated can support. However within the submissions there is no mention of the specific equipment that the design has been based upon. Whilst I understand that the actual equipment will only be decided upon in the detail design phase, the applicant must have assumed a certain equipment selection in order to generate their statistics.

I therefore request that the applicant provides us with a comprehensive equipment list covering such items as solar panels, BESS battery units, inverters, transformers etc identifying manufacturer, model number and quantities of each so that the statistics that they are quoting can be verified and challenged if appropriate.
