You don't often get email from [REDACTED]@hotmail.com. Learn why this is important

Dear Sir/Madam

We have a moral obligation to our forebears to protect our food security, to protect our agricultural land from commercial exploitation by scrutinising the motivational factors that drive developers and landowners. Your role, as scrutineers, must be to ensure that the gains will outweigh, by some margin, the losses. Can this truly be done?

Surely, there can be no justification for ignoring all the potential for rooftop solar capture in favour of stripping out our fields, and there can be no justification to capturing green energy at such a high dirty carbon energy cost, its non sensical!

Those in the game now will not be around to honour their promises in 60 years, so your job is to ensure the credibility of those applying to industrialise large swathes of Englands best food and bio fuel growing land and ensure, beyond reasonable doubt, that the proposals will deliver on their promises, ensure they are carbon friendly (otherwise, frankly, what's the point), are actually green, will actually make a difference to the quality of carbon in the atmosphere and will actually help reduce energy costs for consumers.

All the proposals in Lincolnshire fail to convince anyone that the above is achievable, so the cost to local well being is immeasurable.

Please, do not allow this to happen.

Mrs C Fieldson
