

I strongly oppose this application for the solar panel application. This will caused huge casualties from the wildlife (including crested newts) to the farmlands. Fields are for farming , feeding people and employment for local people. This area isn't to be turned into a concrete and solar panel region, it's the countryside where people live and bring up their families, people retire there, people come on holiday here etc. turning it into a solar farm will not only destroy the area visually it will also cause havoc to the eco system, also attract crime to the area as the equipment is highly valuable, reduce house prices and most important it will have an impact in people's health, whether this be physical harm caused by the "dirty electricity" or mentally by the noise, construction and overall loss of countryside and view. Not to mention this country has had no sun for months now so how much electricity will they produce if we live under a permanent cloud. There are many high buildings in this country if and only if Solar is the way then utilise the spaces available already without ruining our villages and farms.
