Hello,

I am writing to object about the proposed route for the Aquind interconnector in Portsmouth. I am a resident of Portsmouth and do not feel the plans have taken into account the impact on Portsmouth. It seems to me that the residents of Portsmouth have had little say in this project. The planned route causes disruption at every stage from the landing site to the Lovedean substation. There are clearly better options for this route, even if the interconnector is needed it should be installed in a location which has less impact locally. The route goes through some of the busiest roads in the city as well as through many private locations.

Portsmouth should have the final decision on any proposed works in the city. The local residents are united against this route, there is no benefit for our city, only traffic disruption, pollution and negative impact on peoples property.

Thanks,
Jason Needham
