Scheduled Monuments
1012122	Moated site, fishpond and connecting channel, Elton	The monument at Elton comprises a moated site possessing a causeway and outer banks with an adjoining fishpond and connecting channel. The hedged field boundary at the W of the monument is excluded from the scheduling, however, the ground beneath it is included.	Late Medieval	High	No	Scheduled Monument
1016856	Standing cross in St Lawrence's churchyard, Stoak	The monument includes the remains of a medieval standing cross in the churchyard of St Lawrence's Church, Stoak. The cross, which is Listed Grade II, has been broken off half-way up the shaft and a sundial set onto the top. The base is a single massive block of local sandstone, square and measuring 0.72m wide and 0.2m high above the turf. The socket is square and 0.35m wide into which is set the lower part of a shaft, square at the base, rising to octagonal through darts carved at the corners. The shaft stands 1.25m high and a sundial plate has been inserted in the broken top.	Late Medieval	High	No	Scheduled Monument

1014724, 1330243	Chapel at Chapel House Farm 200m west of Wervin Old Hall	Said to be 13th century. Red sandstone coursed rubble. North east angle standing to 14 courses, and south east angle to 8 courses. East wall is hollow to cill height above which is fragments of window opening. Chamfered cills on interior and exterior, and part of moulded rebate for window opening.	Late Medieval	High	No	Scheduled Monument, Grade II listed structure
1015130	Roman camp on Fox Covert Lane 650m north west of Picton Gorse	The monument includes a Roman camp visible as a cropmark on aerial photographs. These reveal a rectangular enclosure bounded by a ditch and divided into two separate areas, lying in two fields on either side of Fox Covert Lane. The camp is one of a group found in the fields to the east of Chester City and is close to the camps at Upton. They are interpreted as practice camps built by troops from the Roman garrison at Chester.	Roman	High	No	Scheduled Monument

Reference Number (NHLE, MCH, Cadw, CPAT)	Asset Name	Description	Period	Value	In Newbuild Infrastructure Boundary?	Asset Type
FL030	Trueman's Hill motte	The monument comprises the remains of a medieval motte, an earthen mound upon which a fortification once stood. The area covered by the original designation did not relate accurately to the remains on the ground and the scheduled area has been revised in order to rectify the original designation.	Late Medieval	High	No	Scheduled Monument
FL002, 13, 100050	Ewloe Castle	The remains of a medieval castle built around 1257 by Llywelyn ap Gruffudd. Located in dense woodland which in medieval times was part of the great forest of Ewloe, it commands a north-facing slope above two ravines, but is overlooked on the south, where a substantial earthwork has been built outside the moat.	Late Medieval	High	No	Scheduled Monument, Grade I listed structure
FL213	Croes Atti Roman Site	The buried remains of a Roman road, roadside settlement and associated cremation cemetery.	Roman	High	No	Scheduled Monument
FL131	Pentre Bridge Roman Site	The monument consists of a Roman settlement noted for its industrial infrastructure for lead refinement.	Roman	High	No	Scheduled Monument

Reference Number (NHLE, MCH, Cadw, CPAT)	Asset Name	Description	Period	Value	In Newbuild Infrastructure Boundary?	Asset Type
FL179, 101881	Hafod Wood Moated Site	The monument comprises the remains of a well-preserved medieval moated homestead. It comprises a rectangular moated site, c 23m square within a moat c 8m wide and counterscarp bank c 2m wide. The site is in excellent condition; the moat platform is fairly level with no signs of disturbance, while the moat is waterlogged in places and therefore has good potential for organic remains. There is no clear entrance. A circular feature in the south-west corner may be an earlier pond or quarry.	Late Medieval	High	No	Scheduled Monument
FL062	Hen Blas Castle Site	The monument consists of the remains of a castle, dating to the medieval period. A castle is a defended residence or stronghold, built mainly of stone, in which the principal or sole defence comprises the walls and towers bounding the site. The monument consists of the remains of an enclosure approximately 48m north-south by 50m east-west sited on a spur-end between two streams flowing from west to east. The enclosure is defined by a ditch on the west and elsewhere by steep natural slopes. On the west	Late Medieval	High	No	Scheduled Monument is an outer enclosure 72m north-south by 78m, again ditched on the west. There is mention of a castle being built in this location in 1157 and captured in 1166. Excavations concluded in 1957 demonstrated that an earthwork castle was replaced by a fortified manor house in the early thirteenth century which was itself abandoned in the late 14th century.

FL096	Bryn y Cosyn Round Barrows	The monument comprises the remains of three earthen built round barrows, which probably date to the Bronze Age (c. 2300 - 800 BC). The barrows are circular in shape on plan and have a rounded profile. The southernmost barrow measures 60ft in diameter and 4ft high. The two to the north measure 60ft in diameter and 2ft high, but have been reduced by ploughing.	Prehistoric	High	No	Scheduled Monument
FL046	Two Round Barrows 90m NE of Eosfan	The monument comprises the remains of two earthen built round barrows, which probably date to the Bronze Age (c. 2300 - 800 BC). The south barrow measures 70ft in diameter and 5ft high. The northern barrow measures 70ft in diameter and 7ft high.	Prehistoric	High	No	Scheduled Monument

FL076, 100252	Round Barrow 225m SE of Plas Newydd	The monument comprises the remains of an earthen built round barrow, which probably date to the Bronze Age (c. 2300 - 800 BC). The barrow has a diameter of 120ft and stands to a height of 6ft. Mound 2m high 27m diameter spread by past ploughing but in reasonable condition. In 1923, a worked flint was picked up from the surface of the mound. Very fine tumulus 120 paces circumference and 6ft high composed of soil (Davies 1949, 410).	Prehistoric	High	No	Scheduled Monument
FL189	Llyn Du Round Barrow	The monument comprises the remains of an earthen built round barrow, which probably dates to the Bronze Age (c. 2300 - 800 BC) and is located within the corner of a field, covered with grass. The barrow is circular with a rounded profile and measures 26m in diameter and stands to a height of 3m. There is no apparent ditch.	Prehistoric	High	No	Scheduled Monument
FL006	Offa's Dyke: Section N & S of the Circle on Holywell Racecourse, and Circle and Round Barrow	The monument comprises the remains of a multi-period complex of earthworks, situated within pasture fields to the south and west of Lower Stables. The complex consists of two lengths of dyke (formerly identified as Offa's Dyke, but more recently identified as the Whitford Dyke),	Early Medieval	High	No	Scheduled Monument abutting an earlier earthwork consisting of a round barrow c.24m in diameter and 1.1m high, set eccentrically within an oval, hengiform enclosure, c.108m northeast to southwest, by 95m. The oval enclosure is defined by a bank with an external ditch. The barrow, dating to the Bronze Age (c.2300 BC - 800 BC), was excavated in 1925, and revealed an inhumation in a central pit and three secondary cremations, one in-urned.

FL163	Enclosure, Field System & Hollowways North of Pant	The monument consists of the remains of a field system, dating to the prehistoric or medieval period.	Late Medieval	High	No	Scheduled Monument
FL162	Hen Caerwys Deserted Village Site	The monument consists of the remains of a deserted rural settlement. The total area is nearly 12 acres and consists of two sets of medieval house platforms, at least three encroachment cottages, paddocks and enclosures associated with the cottages, trackways and terraceways, one enclosure without any internal features, unassociated field boundaries and low walls, quarries and trials, a putative icehouse and probably other anomalous features that do not fall into any of the previous categories.	Late Medieval	High	No	Scheduled Monument

		The area is crossed by two lanes and one farm road. With the exception of a few features around Marian Trefedwin, all the area is scheduled. Excavation has also exposed prehistoric and Romano-British activity through flints and pottery respectively.
FL072	Bwrdd y Rhyfel Camp	Bwrdd y Rhyfel Camp comprises the remains of a defended enclosure or hillfort. Such monuments probably date to the Iron Age period (c. 800 BC - AD 74), although several are known to date from the Late Bronze Age with activity through to the early post-Roman period. Bwrdd y Rhyfel encloses an oval-shaped area approximately 110m by 65m. It is defined by double banks with a medial ditch, and has a south-west facing entrance.	Prehistoric	High	No	Scheduled Monument

3	St Deiniols Ash	Legend states that St. Deiniol, the 4th century Irish saint was shipwrecked near here in the Dee estuary and apparently planted his staff (of ash) on the site. This, the site of his first Christian meeting, was subsequently known as St. Deiniol's, or Daniel's ash. Initially the home of the Aldersey family and, from the late 17th century in the possession of the Cratchleys. William Aldersey was mayor of Chester in 1560. He died in 1577, and it seems likely that the earlier core of the house was built by him as a timber-framed storeyed hall. Considerable additions appear to have been made in the early 17th century, including a storeyed porch and a new parlour wing, all of brick.	Post-medieval	High	No	Grade I Listed Building

24687, 99330, 177893, 180916, 180917	Plas-newydd	Dated 1641 on the hall fireplace lintel, it was originally a 2-unit house of hall and parlour, and with a massive gable-end hall stack. In the late 19th century the house was remodelled to suit contemporary taste by inserting larger sash windows, while the hall was narrowed to create an entrance hall. A cart house was also added in the second half of the 19th century, which has subsequently been partly adapted as an additional ground-floor room in the house. 25682	Greenbank Farm Farmhouse	Greenbank Farm was formerly known as Wared and belonged to the Soughton estate. An estate map of 1805 suggests that the original house was attached to the farm ranges to the north-west. The house was rebuilt on a new site to the south-east of the farm ranges c1860-70, when the farm ranges were also remodelled. It was one of 3 farms remodelled in this way by the Soughton estate, and they had identical farmhouses. 25683	Farm Building at Greenbank Farm	Greenbank Farm was formerly known as Wared and belonged to the Soughton estate. An estate map of 1805 suggests that the original house was attached to the farm building. The house was rebuilt on a new site to the south-east, c1860-70, when the farm building was remodelled. A former barn towards the north-west of the ranges appears to be the earliest part, pre-dating the 19th century changes. Subsequent alterations occurred in the early 20th century when there was a change from mixed farming to dairy farming.	Post-medieval	Moderate	No	Grade II Listed Building

25692	Lower Soughton Hall	House with Elizabethan origins rebuilt or remodelled in 1865-6 by J W Walton and incorporating fragments of earlier work. The chimney pieces are by Brown & Lamont of Chester. The west wing, which has a stone plinth, is part of an earlier phase, possibly the original farmhouse. In 1832 it was described as an irregular house of some antiquity, at which time it was owned by John Conway, magistrate. It was much smaller in 1839, as shown on the Northop tithe map, where 2 ranges and an outbuilding are shown.	Post-medieval	Moderate	No	Grade II Listed Building
25694	Old Police Station	Dated 1877 and by John Douglas, architect of Chester. Commissioned by John Bankes of the Soughton estate as a police station, court house and newsroom. The former police station was later used as a Public House.	Post-medieval	Moderate	No	Grade II Listed Building
25695	Bath-house at Lower Soughton Hall	Bath-house or baptistery of unknown date, probably early-mid 19th century, and possibly contemporary with the house. In the spandrels above the entrance are the initials 'EML' and date '1710', but neither inscription appears to be original. The initials refer to Edward Lewis who lived at Lower Soughton; he was brother-in-law of Edward Conway who inherited	Post-medieval	Moderate	No	Grade II Listed Building

26192	Hafod Farmhouse	Hafod Farm was sold by the Hope family to the Grosvenor Estate in 1804. In 1860 the old house was replaced by a new farmstead intended to be the model farm of the Grosvenor Estate. The Grosvenor family owned an extensive estate and mineral rights in the Halkyn area. Halkyn Castle was built for the second Earl Grosvenor in 1824-7 and was used as an occasional residence. The Earl was later made Duke of Westminster. 84434	Queensferry War Memorial Institute	The War Memorial Institute was opened on 29th December 1920 by H. N. Gladstone, Lord Lieutenant of Flintshire. There was originally a Liberal Club on the site, but it had not been successful as membership was based on ability to pay, and it was later demolished. After the First World War, the trustees and H. N. Gladstone gave their permission for an Institute and Memorial to be built, and £400 was raised for this purpose. There was a later appeal for a library extension, but it is not clear if it was ever built.	Modern	Moderate	No	Grade II Listed Building

87601, 119868	Former Women's Land Army Hostel	The Women's Land Army (WLA) was formed in 1939 as a response to the outbreak of the Second World War and the need to increase domestic food production and the number of agricultural workers available. Members of the WLA were either billeted locally or provided with accommodation in requisitioned buildings such as schools and private houses. Purpose built hostels, normally to a standard design and using utilitarian materials were also constructed in order to provide more organised accommodation. It is thought that by 1944 there were somewhere in the region of 700 WLA hostels (of all types) in the UK.	Modern	Moderate	No	Grade II Listed Building
