Dear Sir/Madam,

What exactly makes the British government want to destroy our past and roots, and erase the past of humanity?

Britain here has a major responsibility in protecting our European ancestors' history and the knowledge and consciousness of present and future generations.

How ironic to denounce the barbaric destruction of historic Buddhas by Talibans, and do exactly the same thing to your own landscape and history, and this...for so-called road traffic progress? Serious?

And at a time when cars don't even get petrol to be on roads, this seems even more ridiculous.

And definitely criminal to humanity's intelligence indeed.

Britain, my dear friend, please stop this nonsense and come back to your senses. Leave our roots in peace. We need them to move forward.

With my kind regards,

Armelle Le Corre
