Dear Sir,

I am concerned about proposals to alter the access to Stonehenge. The latest submission by National Highways does not consider the increased emissions from traffic near the heritage site. We are told to decrease emissions elsewhere not increase them. Nor has it updated the carbon assessment and the costs for that damage..

There must be alternative routes further away from the heritage site. A longer tunnel, however difficult, would reduce the impact of traffic on the site. We will be held to account by future generations.

Your truly,
Jill Howell
