Dear Planning Inspectorate,

I am sorely disappointed that, despite overwhelming objection to your bypass plan, you are continuing to pursue the idea of an underpass close to Stonehenge. In this parlous time when we are threatened by devastating climate change we should be doing everything we can to diminish the amount of traffic and carbon emissions on our roads, not expand them in accordance with your plan. The project should be dropped, full stop.

Please take into consideration that Stonehenge is unique in the world and should be protected from any further encroachment on its site. However, if there has to be a new road from east to west, then the more plausible route would be further south, benefitting not only travellers to Devon and Cornwall but the towns and cities along the way nearer to the coast.

Yours, Margaret Hopkins.
