For the attention of the Minister of Environment,
Stonehenge is a World heritage Site. There are few of these in the UK and it is important that we retain them and improve their surroundings. The proposed new dual carriageway which involves gouging deep cuttings so near to the archaeological site would threaten the survival of the site. A southern bypass route would avoid this. The site of Stonehenge is much greater than a circle of stones and many prehistoric sites have been discovered nearby. It would be a criminal act to destroy this environment.
