Dear Sirs,

I feel that it would be desecration of a site of world importance to proceed with the present proposed road. Much has been learnt about the area around Stonehenge, which indicates that the whole area is important, as well as the stones themselves. There is nothing like it in the world, which is why it is a World Heritage Site.

Please consider routing a new road to the south, or building a long tunnel. Anything but a destructive cutting, slicing through goodness knows what archaeological treasures.

Yours faithfully,

C.M.Burden (Mrs.)
