To whom it may concern

I wish to lodge that I am strongly opposed and in fact deeply concerned by the news that [REDACTED] is underway to the Department of Transport for the road widening scheme at Stone Henge.

Is it not enough that we are blasting an ever-widening hole into the ozone layer and filling the oceans with plastic? Surely we should be doing all we can to re-wild the planet and leave well alone the structures that pre-date us by so many generations? This is not a development that has convinced the general public of its virtues by way of either publicity or persuasion.

Please take all the concerns you may be receiving seriously.

Kind thanks
Lucy Forbes Moss
