Loss of World Heritage site.

This will cause irreparable harm to our reputation and standing in the world and will hit finances to the Travel industry. We condemn other countries which deliberately damage their heritage. What are we thinking to even consider this damage?

Will it solve the present traffic problem? Won't these just be shifter further down the 303?

Please consider the alternatives already set out.

CO2 emissions from traffic: the present level should decline with the wider use of electric cars

Damage to archeology: Do we really wish to destroy our own heritage?
