Dear Sirs,

The conflict between all those vehicles racing down to the southwest and this priceless world heritage site must STOP.

NO tunnel, NO dual carriageway. You must keep clear by means of a BYPASS.

The maps show potential routes north or south in a curve that avoids not only Stonehenge but also the multitude of archaeological sites surrounding it. This is a VERY SPECIAL PLACE, famous the world over.

You have the opportunity of getting this right and of not being hated and despised forever afterwards, worldwide.

So a few miles will be added to the A303? So what? More costly than a tunnel? Will we be driving in 20 years?

PLEASE, stop all the nonsense and head bravely across country well clear of Stonehenge, which needs only a small side road for access to the vicinity of the site.

There really is NO QUESTION about this. You must do it. It is TOO IMPORTANT.

Thank you.
