I am writing to say that Stonehenge should be left untouched and there is no need to build a tunnel for traffic underneath a World heritage site. I live in Wiltshire and I fully appreciate the tourism that Stonehenge brings to the county. However it was only relatively recently that a new roundabout, access road and car parking facilities were built to allow easier traffic flow for road users and visitors at Stonehenge. These facilities are off the A360 that easily joins the A303 already via a roundabout, therefore to waste money and resources building a tunnel underneath to reach the A303 is ludicrous. If the Department for Transport has that kind of budget available I suggest it should be better used to repair other roads in Wiltshire.

Stonehenge is unique and it should be kept that way and not have it's foundations risked for the sake of a tunnel that is NOT necessary. Please remember Stonehenge is not something that can be replaced.
