Sir. I wish to comment on the above proposal. The excavation of a tunnel and its associated infrastructure will be immensely costly and permanently ruin the Stonehenge area. Whilst the traffic problem is clearly huge, especially in summer, could the existing road not be altered to become a simple dual carriageway but built to a lower standard, (eg a narrow central reservation with a single Armco barrier), than is seen elsewhere in the UK. A 40mph speed limit could be applied with lorries restricted to the nearside lane .
