Dear Sir/Madam

We are most disappointed that this is still going ahead. Our original objections remain but would urge you to reconsider in the light of this Government's own CO2/net zero targets which have been announced since this scheme was planned.

Since the last determination National Highways have failed to:-

Update costs

Update carbon emissions

Amend the scheme so as to take in the Secretary of States opinion that it would be "significantly adverse"

Take a serious look at alternatives/all routes that could reduce the damage to the World Heritage Site and thus the objections of UNESCO

Ever substantiate their claims of any road scheme being able to achieve the carbon reductions/reliable journey times over a sustained period

Ever listen to what the general public want - they are after all who pay for their schemes.

Your sincerely

Lynne and Alex Fish
