Dear Sir

I was born in Wiltshire and lived most of my life in Wiltshire. Although I do not live in Wiltshire now I still think of it as my home.

The solution to the problem is not some great single-solution cut-and-cover tunnel (with huge cost to the tax payer).

The solution requires far more intelligent and sensitive measures:

- * consider a southern route
- * more investment in providing other measures for travelling to the south-west

And with every year (in fact every month) there is more information on climate change that makes any plan to increase traffic flow irresponsible unless/until we have zero-emission transport.

Regards
