To whom it may concern,

The above project is (like many 'link roads/by-passes') a complete waste of time and money. Objections have already noted the environmental damage that will be sustained for no tangible gain. All the traffic problems in this area relate to - very simply - too many cars!

Building this white elephant will create as many or more problems as the existing road system and does not address the overall issue which is the amount of traffic on the roads.

If you really want to do something give Gamesley a railway station and create and support a proper public transport system.

You will also need to factor in the public protests that will arise. People have had enough of this rubbish.
