Our land is not subject to compulsory acquisition however land over which we have a right of access (which is the only means of access to our property) is subject to compulsory acquisition. So far, we haven't been provided with any information regarding the purchase of the land or how our access will be affected. The relevant landowners have also not received any information yet. We'd like to speak at a Compulsory Acquisition Hearing to raise our concerns about the current lack of information, and also to address potential problems or concerns with the compulsory acquisition and rights of access once we do have information through from Highways England.
