To whom it may concern

I have been in receipt of several letters over the past few years as I am a resident directly affected by the expansion project. The planes fly directly over my house and houses a few doors away are less affected than me as they are not eclipsed by the shadows of the planes and noise levels. These planes have increased over the last few years and some are particularly noisy.

The letters that are sent to us make no sense and I am never sure whether we are meant to respond to them or whether they are just for our information. Some residents even post them on our Facebook page and ask what we are to do as they do not explain in layman's terms what is happening. I understand that there may have been meetings that residents were invited to but I believe they were in a working day.

I would like to know in basic terms whether this project is going ahead. Whether there will be an increase in planes on the same flight path directly over our garden and whether we will be compensated for this huge inconvenience? Surely if the flight path was altered slightly when planes come into land it would affect less houses. Even moving the path slightly to the right or left, it would give those houses in the direct line a break. During lockdown, I know a military plane circled several times and landed and took off to Luton, and that plane managed to fly slightly to the right of our garden which makes a huge difference.

There are many villagers in Caddington who are not bothered by the planes and say that we knew the airport was here when we bought our houses. They are not aware of the increase or are affected by it. Please consider those houses that the flight paths goes directly over. It is not that many but it has a huge impact on us.

Kind regards
