I support the reopening of Manston airport for several reasons. The economy of the area is much needed. The jobs in the area are much needed and the airport would create this. The airport would take away the need to expand Gatwick or heathrow airports which would save an enormous amount of money not to mention the time it would take to build their new runways when Manston has the longest runway ready and waiting. The time, expense and trouble involved for people living in Kent to travel to Luton Stansted or heathrow airports is enormous. Just recently we missed our flight from Luton because there were no southeastern trains to London as someone had stolen signal cables, we had to drive and the Dartford tunnel was at its worst.
