I think opening Manston Airport to passengers and freight is a good idea, they have the major road connection to London also the fast train services for passengers and freight, I think the objections that are coming from Ramsgate locals could be a case of "not in my back yard". I live near an airport so I know a little bit about it, and I have been following this story with some interest from the start of this whole saga. I do hope the airport goes ahead as it will create many jobs for the area too.
