Having been a resident of Ramsgate for over 50 years, I feel very involved in its future. Several attempts have been made to run Manston as a functioning airport. All have failed. I realise a cargo hub does not rely on passenger numbers, but times have changed.

We are now entering a more enlightened age, where peoples physical and mental health are a priority. The noise and poisonous fumes being emitted by cargo planes using Manston, will have a very detrimental effect on the residents lives. This year we celebrated the 200th anniversary of the Georgian Royal Harbour.

Built by the famous architect Smeaton. The title was given to us by George IV. The town is full of Georgian and Victorian properties. Many listed and all in conservation areas. The effect of vibrations and fumes on these ancient buildings will be disastrous. We are a holiday destination, with a thriving Arts and Crafts side. In fact a regeneration of our town is happening. A cargo hub would be the death knell of this!!
