We are facing a climate emergency. Air planes have negative impacts. not just in noise, in traffic increases, but most relevant today the increase in use of fossil fuels and polluting gases from their uses.

What has happened to our aim for zero carbon?

Air traffic should be decreasing, not increasing. Taxes should increase on air travel.

Airplanes do not pay the true cost on their fuel. With modern technology meetings do not always have to be person to person. The necessity of air travel is decreasing.

The addition of another runway is only a commercial/money making exercise. It is not showing social and environmental responsibility.
