

The environmental impact of any expansion to LGW will be rightly scrutinised in planning stages. With advances in aircraft & engine technology, as well as growing uptake in the use of SAF, current noise levels as well as carbon emissions will be mitigated to a great extent. I hope that due diligence is given to arriving at a sensible, realistic set of assumptions around the pace of these changes. A range would seem sensible.