

Living in the High Weald Natural Landscape our peace is continually shattered by aircraft noise, which is annoying and disrupting. Despite this, I find the most astonishing thing about the application and any potential approval for a new runway, is that we should be reducing our reliance on air travel because of the huge effects it has on our climate. Why are we increasing Gatwick's capacity when we should be doing the opposite?