Allowing Gatwick Airport to utilise largely existing infrastructure to increase capacity makes so much sense.
This proposal is something that can be easily delivered within the existing footprint of the airport, unlike much more complicated options like building a third runway at Heathrow.