

Hello headings incomplete for an individual not au fait with all your headings. I have found Gatwick to be quite arrogant with local people like me and my family. Emissions should be decreasing fro gatwick, not increasing. There should be a night ban like Heeathrow on flights as there is a proven link between ill health and sleep deprivation. The main problem is that crawley has little un-employment so the 20,000 new jobs (strange as Gatwick is automating jobs) will have to travel to and from or of couse move nearby. Presumably Gatwick will contribute to the new houses/schools/doctors surgerys etc that will then be required? This area is already reeling with large influx of people and cars. Then there is the regular flooding problems on and around the airport . Also the airport has a sewage problem and needs a waste water treatment building. I am a infrequent user of the airport and support modest growth but this is all to much on a small site (LGW is only 674 hectares as opposed to for instance Charles De Gaulle at 3200 hectares!! So this development is a crazy idea I'm afraid. Thank you for this opportunity to comment.
