

No idea if my comments are against the correct title but as a layperson all the acronyms/technical stuff is frankly beyond me.

However, I do not agree with Gatwick's disingenuous plans to expand via a DCO, as major infrastructure such as an airport the utter destruction this will cause the local area in terms of air pollution, water pollution, noise, increased traffic, flooding threat, general blight, housing issues, migration of workforce, road/rail issues etc simply cannot be sneaked in via this method.

As a resident of Brockham I do not agree that Gatwick should expand at all, we already have a climate crisis on our hands and flying is one of the most CO2 intensive forms of transport and for that reason alone expansion should be disallowed as we attempt to slow the problems caused by greenhouse gases. This, added to the many other problems, some of which I have stated above this expansion should be very firmly refused, once and for all so that this continual blight to the area can finally be ended.
