Dear Sir,

I am wringing in relation to the rail terminal and connections being built currently reading 'SHOULD' rather than 'MUST'. if the wording they wish are to use is in fact agreed then there would be too much wriggle room and would allow them to later use an excuse not to build the rail terminal. In essence this means that green belt land would be developed entirely for road based freight in the totally wrong location, adding a huge volume of HGV traffic onto our already heavily congested and increasing traffic problems. The M6 is over capacity and the Smart Motorway is causing more problems. Please make sure this wording is changed to 'must'!

Thank you,

Chloe Alexander
